Craig Bondy is a Managing Director of GTCR, which he joined in 2000. He is the Co-Head of the firm's Technology, Media & Telecommunications group. Founded in 1980, GTCR is a premier private equity firm that currently manages more than $15 billion in equity capital. GTCR utilizes The Leaders Strategy approach to investing in high-growth industries. During his tenure at GTCR, Craig has been actively involved in over 50 acquisitions for the firm and its portfolio companies. Craig currently serves on the board of directors of several GTCR portfolio companies including EaglePicher Technologies, Fairway Outdoor and Simpli.fi. In addition, Craig was previously a Director of GTCR's past investments including Avention, CAMP Systems, CellNet Technologies, DigitalNet (NASDAQ: DNET), Landmark Aviation, Six3 Systems, Solera (NYSE: SLH), TransFirst and VeriFone (NYSE: PAY).

Prior to joining GTCR, Craig worked in the investment banking department of Credit Suisse First Boston in Chicago where he focused on M&A advisory and capital markets transactions primarily for Midwest industrial clients. He also worked in CSFB's London office where he principally advised Western European governments on the privatization of several state-owned businesses including telecom, oil & gas, banking, and aviation assets.

Craig holds MBA from the Stanford University Graduate School of Business. He received a BBA in Finance with high honors from the Honors Business Program at the University of Texas at Austin.

Outside of GTCR, Craig spends significant time on the Board of Communities In Schools of Chicago, a non-profit organization that connects public school children with free social, emotional, health and enrichment programs. He also serves on the Management Advisory Board for the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

Craig lives in Chicago with his wife, Elliana, and their two teenage children.
